Rural Health Publications

Examining variations in health within rural Canada

"Differences in health between urban and rural areas of Canada are well documented. Canadian rural communities are remarkably heterogeneous in terms of social, economic, and geographic characteristics. There is reason to believe that there is also considerable heterogeneity in health within rural Canada but existing literature has not given this adequate consideration."

Lavergne M, Kephart G. Examining variations in health within rural Canada. Rural and Remote Health 12: 1848. (Online) 2012. Available: <http://www.rrh.org.au>

Ethical professional practice: exploring the issues for health services to rural Aboriginal communities

"This article provides a first person account of the experience of professional ethics for a psychologist who has worked in several Aboriginal communities in Alberta, Canada."

Malone JL. Ethical professional practice: exploring the issues for health services to rural Aboriginal communities. Rural and Remote Health 12: 1891. (Online) 2012. Available: <http://www.rrh.org.au>

Generational differences in factors influencing physicians to choose a work location

"Canadian medical schools have increased enrolment and recruited more rural students in an effort to address general and rural physician shortages. This study explored the factors that influenced the work location choices of physicians of differing generations"

Mathews M, Seguin M, Chowdhury N, Card RT. Generational differences in factors influencing physicians to choose a work location. Rural and Remote Health 12: 1864. (Online) 2012. Available: <http://www.rrh.org.au>
