

Rural Health Equity Conference February 14th & 28th, 2022 | Virtual

Registration is Now Open for the Rural Health Equity Conference 2022! #RHE2022

The Rural Health Equity Conference 2022 explores equity and health issues in rural settings, sparking dialogue and connections between people who share a passion for responding to rural and remote communities' unique needs.

Offered entirely online on two separate dates (February 14th and 28th) will allow for reconnection and continued conversation. Presentations will explore strategies for genuine engagement and create dialogue about the implications of research findings for both rural communities and service organizations. Our goal is to spark partnerships for transformative research and knowledge translation. Community action for health equity and relational, integrated knowledge translation are the two main themes that guide our program.
