News from the RHSRNbc Office

Dear RHSRNbc members,

We hope that this month's newsletter finds you and your loved ones safe and well. Happy New Year! We look forward to working with you in 2021.

Following the BC government directives for COVID-19, the University of British Columbia remains operational, but access to campus is restricted. Kindly note that the Rural Health Services Research Network is working remotely until further notice. The best way to reach us is via email.

The RHSRNbc network successfully hosted our first virtual Symposium on 'Planning resilient communities and adapting rural health services in response to climate change and ecosystem disruption' on Nov 30th - Dec 1st, 2020. We were delighted with the participation turnout and the discussions that ensued. The planning committee of the symposium organized a working group meeting following the symposium to discuss further steps in the new year.

In this edition of our newsletter, we update on the network's activities, upcoming events, research, funding and volunteer opportunities, online resources, recent rural research publications and more.

Have a wonderful week and stay safe!

Activity Updates

- RHSRNbc 2020 Symposium Proceedings
- RHSRNbc Symposium recordings and learning materials
- RHSRNbc publications on climate change, ecosystem disruption and enhancing rural resiliency
- BCRHRExchange RCCbc highlights and session recordings

Surveys

Engagement survey

If you are interested in spotlighting rural health workers, community members working on community health initiatives, or if you want to feature a personal story, pictures or other opportunities, please fill out this survey. We would love to feature it in the next newsletter.

Networking Opportunities

One of the many infrastructures at the SPOR network, Can-SOLVE CKD is the Canadian Nephrology Trials Network (CNTN). At CNTN, we are trying to engage community-based nephrologists or nephrology health care providers and trainees. We have a quarterly newsletter and our website has a listing of investigator-initiated trials and highlights our member's publications, as well as the promoting news and events in kidney research across Canada. If you know of anyone who might be interested, you could send them my contact information (amurdoch@cansolveckd.ca) or our website address.
